

ABSTRACT

An integrated computerized system, for use particularly in a facility providing menu selected meals to patients, provides for ordering a meal appropriate to a specific patient, determining the status and whereabouts of the meal prior to its delivery to the 5 patient, and tracking the dietary intake of the patient at the facility over time.